The ſables of Kamtſchatka excel all other ſables of Siberia, both in largeneſs, thickneſs of hair, and brightneſs; but in point of blackneſs they do not come up to thoſe of Olekmine and Vitime: however their other properties are ſo valuable, that the Kamtſchatka ſables have by much the preference; and in China, where they know how to improve the colour, fetch ſo great a price that few of them are brought into Ruſſia. The ſables of Tegbil and Oukine are moſt eſteemed, and are ſometimes ſold for thirty rubles a pair. Mr. Steller ſays, that the worſt are hunted about the Lopatka and Kuriliſkoy ſeas. It often happens that the worſt kind of ſables ſhall have their tails ſo black and thick haired, that they will ſell dearer than any other.

Before the conqueſt of Kamtſchatka there was ſo great a plenty of ſables that one hunter would kill ſeventy or eighty in a year; and that not for the ſake of the furr, but the fleſh, which they eſteem very delicious. The inhabitants at that time willingly agreed to pay their tribute in ſables; and were glad to receive a knife for eight, and an ax for eighteen. Some merchants have gained in one year by furrs only more than thirty thouſand rubles. The ſables are ſtill in much greater plenty here than in any other country, as is obſerved by every one who has been upon the ſpot, and compared their tracts upon the ſnow with what are ſeen either upon the rivers Lena or Beloy, and this even in the neighbourhood of the forts. And if the people of Kamtſchatka were as induſtrious in hunting as thoſe about the Lena, they could ſell a great many more than they; but ſuch is their natural lazineſs, that they never kill more than what they muſt pay in tribute, and what will pay their debts. They look upon him as an extraordinary good hunter that kills ſix or ſeven ſables in a winter; and ſeveral are not able to furniſh their tribute furrs, but muſt borrow either from the Ruſſian Coſſacks, or ſome more induſtrious hunter of 183 to hunt conſiſts of a net, a bow and arrows, a fire-ſteel with 461 flint and tinder. When they find a ſable concealed either in the earth or under the root of ſome tree, they throw the net over the place, in which he entangles himſelf when he comes out. With the bow and arrows they ſhoot them when they fly to the trees; and the ſteel and flint are to ſtrike fire, by which they ſmoke them, and drive them out of their holes. The beſt hunters, to be nearer the game, go out with their whole families to the hills, where they build huts and live the whole winter.

224 Although the ſtone foxes, and hares, abound in Kamtſchatka,
237 yet hardly any one thinks it worth his trouble to hunt them,
136 their furrs being of ſmall value; and when they fall into the fox traps, they uſe their ſkins as coverings in their beds. The Kamtſchatka ſtone foxes are little better than the hares of Tourouchan, which are very bad, the hair eaſily falling off. Steller relates, that ſome uſed to ſew the tails of the ſtone foxes to the hare-ſkins of Tourouchan, and impoſe them upon the ignorant as true ſtone fox-ſkins, the thickneſs of the ſkin and furr making it difficult to diſcover the cheat.

Marmottas * abound every where in Kamtſchatka. The Koreki uſe their ſkins for cloaths; and, indeed, they are reckoned no ordinary dreſs, being both light and warm. Steller compares 136 the furrs made of the backs of the marmottas to the ſpotted feathers of birds, eſpecially if ſeen at a diſtance; and he alſo ſays, that this animal is found both upon the continent and the
